Accident Mars Good Will Tour

Cliff Bowden Is Injured When Crossing Highway

Aged and Respected Man Suffers Broken Leg In Accident.

SAID UNAVOIDABLE

Wash Hudson Driving Car When Mr. Bowden Was Struck.

First accident ever to mar one of Hope's annual good-will tours occurred late Wednesday afternoon eight miles south of here when a car driven by Wash Hudson, former county judge of this county, struck Cliff Bowden, 80, one of the county's best known citizens, breaking his leg and severely bruising him.

Members of the good will tour were homeward bound from Lewisville, last stop of the day on their itinerary. Mr. Hudson, carrying five of the Hope Boys Band on the trip, was coming in when Mr. Bowden started across the road. The driver sounded a warning signal and the old gentleman stopped and started to retreat his steps. Then thinking he had time to make it, turned again and started on his way. Then noting the car's approach he became confused with a result he was struck by a far fender and his leg broken, the car going into a ditch from efforts of the driver to stop it.

Mr. Hudson immediately summoned medical aid for Mr. Bowden, an ambulance from here going to the scene. Mr. Bowden was brought to a hospital where today he is resting as well as could be expected, his advance age making his recovery a matter of greater time than if he were younger.

The victim absolves the driver from any blame, admitting he became confused when the warning of the car approaching was sounded.

Los Angeles Fires First Clean-Up Gun

Bootlegger's Confession Puts City Police Force Under Fire.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Two police sergeants and a patrolman were under arrest, nine warrants were being served and another was being withheld as a result of a grand jury investigation of charges that a "shake-down" ring composed of police officers had collected thousands of dollars from one Los Angeles bootlegger within the past five years.

The investigation was undertaken ten days ago by District Attorney Burton Pitts on information furnished by J. B. Westman alias J. D. McDonald and "police pay-off man."

Sergeants Harry Hill and Leonard E. Isale and patrolman Thomas B. Washburn, of the vice detail, were arrested last night, Washburn being later released on $10,000 bond.

Three other officers were named in the indictments returned by the grand jury late yesterday, one of them a former police captain. None have been arrested but it is understood they will surrender today when they have arranged for bail.

Dr. Henry Finishes His Long-Sought Vacation

Dr. F. D. Henry, who has been on a vacation for several days past, will be back on the job again Saturday morning. He was seized with a sudden desire to go fishing and had to have an excuse, so he had his office all rearranged, new equipment added and everything, and now that the carpenters, painters, mechanics and electricians he has no further reason for staying on the lake so gets back on the job again.

The office has been completely gone over and with the added equipment is as well prepared as any dental office in this section of the state.

Stirs Turmoil in Naval Circles

Storm center of the Senate inquiry into "big navy" propaganda is William B. Shearer, above, lobbyist representing shipbuilding interests. Shearer claimed that it was the Navy Department itself that supplied him with "confidential data" on the strength of the United States and foreign navies which he used as propaganda at the Geneva Arms Conference.

Tourists Off On Second Day Trip

Will Visit To Northern Part In Rounds Made Today.

The second day of the annual good will tour of Hope business and professional men got under way this morning to visit Fulton, McNab, Saratoga, Okay, Mineral Springs, Nashville and other points during the day's run.

At every point on their journey yesterday the tourists were heartily welcomed, expressions of good will and assurances of an active interest in the Southwest Arkansas Fair being heard on every hand.

Arkadelphia City Council To Visit

Here This Afternoon To Inspect City's Street Washing Machine.

The city council of Arkadelphia will be guests of Mayor Ruff Boyett and members of the council here this afternoon when they come to inspect Hope's street-washing machine with a view to purchasing similar equipment.

The machine here, in its five months test, has given such complete satisfaction that city officials are priding themselves upon their wisdom in its purchase. Each morning sees each street in the paved district washed clean of dust, dirt and debris and in addition in this machine the city has valuable secondary fire fighting equipment.

Matter of fact, and not wishing to throw bouquets around promiscuously, Hope's street and fire departments are as well equipped as any small city in the southwest.

East Dangerous To British Empire

Writer Urges Country To Surrender Mandate To Territory.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Viscount Rothermere, British publisher writing in the Daily Mail, today said that Great Britain should hand back to the League of Nations forthwith her mandates to Palestine and Iraq "or the middle East may be her ruin."

He suggested that the United States was much more attractive to Jews as a national home than the proposition of "patriarchal poverty in Palestine."

Navy's Dirigible Fired On In Test Flight To Hangar

Main Helium Tank of Ship Punctured By Rifle Bullet.

ZEPPELIN FIRED AT

Los Angeles Also Has Been Target for Bullets of Riflemen.

LAKEHURST, N. J., Sept. 12.—(AP)—The navy's new all-metal dirigible, ZMC-2, built at Detroit, arrived here shortly before noon today with a bullet hole in the main helium gas chamber.

Captain William Kepner, of the army, who flew the ship here, was unaware that he had been shot at until the ship had been walked in to its hangar where the hole was discovered by a member of the crew.

Graf Fired At

On the last leg of its round-the-world flight the Graf Zeppelin became a target for the riflemen also, a bullet hole being found in the fabric covering when the ship was landed at Lakehurst. The navy dirigible Los Angeles has also been fired at in trips through the country.

Crisis Near In Naval Argument

London Expects Important Developments Within Few Hours.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Highly important developments in the Anglo-American naval disarmament negotiations are expected here within the next 48 hours by well informed circles.

By that time America will have replied to Great Britain's naval disarmament proposition and the reply will be in the hands of Prime Minister MacDonald. The nature of the reply will determine whether the labor leaders will leave for Washington Sept. 28 or whether his visit will have to be postponed until a later date.

Guernsey Singing School Will Close Friday Night

The singing school at Water Creek church, just west of Hope, conducted by Horace Kennedy, will close Friday night with a public recital, featured by several selections from the Washington quartette.

The school has been one of the most successful in the county this year, an average of 135 pupils being in attendance, and it hoped the public will generally respond to be present at the opening of the Friday night entertainment.

Texas, Dry Law Author, Is Unopposed for Senate

TEXARKANA, Tex., Sept. 12.—Texas politicians are scrambling to run for governor in next year's democratic primaries, no one has announced opposition to Morris Sheppard of Texarkana, United States senator and author of the eighteenth amendment.

It is taken for granted that Sheppard, who has been in congress since 1902, will seek reelection. If he does not, the field will be large. James E. Ferguson, former governor, has indicated that he might end his political retirement to contest Sheppard's seat.

Gardener, Fired, Murders Woman

After 17 Years Service Goes Wild When Discharged and Kills.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Mrs. Barbara Diebolt, 63, heirress of the Diebolt brewing fortune was shot and killed at her Euclid Village home early today by a gardener who police say was angry because he had been dismissed.

Michael Cetero, the gardener, walked into the village police station, and announced that he had killed the woman.

He had been employed at the Irr home for 17 years prior to his discharge two weeks ago. Servants said he had been disgruntled over his discharge and had threatened to shoot the family.

Trouble Maker in the Near East

Notorious leader of Moslem disorders in the Near East is Sultan Pasha el Atrache, rebel chief in who has eluded arrest by French and British officials for many years. He is pictured above preparing his own lunch in the desert. He now is reported to be advancing upon Palestine cities at the head of a large body of Druse tribesmen, taking advantage of recent Jew-Arab riots to instigate a widespread Moslem uprising.

Hope Melon Wins Federal Farm Board Vote Without Contest

Chairman Legge Predicts Board Have To Ask Congress for More Money If Everybody Increases Growth As Melon Grower Did.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Bid for the home of the world's largest watermelons was lodged with the Federal Farm Board today on behalf of Hope, Arkansas, when a melon weighing 149 pounds was presented as proof of what can be grown down there.

Senator Joe T. Robinson, presenting the melon on behalf of the Hope Chamber of Commerce, directed his remarks specifically to Chairman Legge, calling attention to the fact that the melon was grown on the farm of Oscar D. Middlebrooks, in Hempstead county, Arkansas.

Chairman Legge, in receiving the melon, looked at it closely and said: "If all farmers in this country are as successful in increasing the growth of their crops as the grower of this melon has been, we will have to come back to congress for more money." He did not expand upon this remark though some of those present interpreted it to mean that if many such crops were produced the problem of over-production would be intensified.

Patterson Now Buying Convert

Quantity Discount Savings Passed On To Customers He Says.

To meet the growing demand for quality manufacturing, buying and selling, Patterson's Department Store of Hope has just formed a connection with a group of women's wear and department stores which have a total buying power of thirty million dollars annually.

A trial buying arrangement was made when this new group of buyers was organized four months ago. Since that time the connection has been so successful in securing discounts for large orders of merchandise, that R. M. Patterson, pioneer local department store proprietor, has agreed to buy a great portion of his goods through them. Within these four months 125 other stores throughout five southwestern states have entered into the same buying arrangements. One store in each community may enter this buying club. As more stores are added to the list, greater discounts will be granted, and this will permit still further reductions in the prices of much of the merchandise sold in the stores who are members of this group.

Several nationally known lines of goods are obtained through this organization. "This is just another step," says Mr. Patterson, "in reducing the cost of getting merchandise into the hands of the consumer. It is a plan whereby we can sell goods cheaper than was possible with the older methods of buying."

Lineman Touches Live Wire, Dies

Efforts To Revive Him After Shock Hurls To Earth Are Futile.

CLARKSVILLE, Ark., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Working at the top of a pole on a high power line, Raymond Ladd, 22, employed by the Clarksville Light and Power Co., came in contact with a high voltage line today and was fatally injured.

He fell to the ground and though rushed immediately to a hospital where resuscitative efforts were made, failed to rally. He was the son of G. W. Ladd, engaged in the lumber business here.

Youngsters Forsake Old Bell-Ringing Profession

Eaves Being Tried for Operating Sunday Show

"Yanks" Refusal to Meet "Rebs" Not News Matter

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 12.—(AP)—The Grand Army of the Republic, in its 63rd annual encampment, today tabled a resolution for a joint resolution with the United Confederate Veterans.

By a large "aye" vote a minority report favoring the reunion was laid on the table after a discussion of the proposition, which brought many of the delegates to their feet for impassioned speeches, both for and against the move.

Such a reunion had been favored by the Commander in Chief of the United Confederate Veterans who had telegraphed his approval to the encampment here.

Fireworks Show To Feature Fair

Biggest Out-Door Showing Ever Staged In This Part of State.

One of the largest open-air fireworks attractions ever brought to this state—"The Festival of Fire" will headline the evening entertainment program at the Southwest Arkansas Fair this year, according to the contracts which have just been closed by fair officials, and which were announced today.

The attraction will be planned and carried out in its entirety by the world's largest producers of fireworks displays, who have furnished the pyrotechnic spectacles for the last three world fairs, and for hundreds of state fairs and celebrations throughout the country. It will be enacted on a huge scale, much more elaborate and extensive than any evening program presented here in recent years.

According to the preliminary outline given today by fair officials, "The Festival of Fire" will, as its name implies, present every type of feature now embraced in the world of modern fireworks. Quadruple repeating rockets, battle shells, sets of pieces of dazzling beauty and color, weird aerial bombs that shriek and howl as they zig-zag across the sky—these and scores of other entirely new types of pyrotechnics will be mingled in profusion with historical features, comedy tableaux in fire and flame, and many other attractions running the entire gamut of fireworks art.

Aside from the new, bizarre and unusual, the event will also bring back to local fair-goers all the old favorites of other times, such as "Niagara Falls," the "Fountain of Jewels," portraits of famous figures done in living flames, action pieces and like attractions which have been favorites with fair-goers for many seasons.

A special corps of fireworks technicians will be brought here to stage the entire event, and tons of fireworks will be required for the complete presentation.

It will be the very last word of modern evening entertainment, and will mark an entirely new step in fireworks attractions. The fair management is sparing no expense in making this the greatest night show they have ever presented in the history of the fair.

Mussolini Quits Several Offices

Only Hangs On To The Two Which Make Him The Supreme Power.

ROME, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Benito Mussolini Italian dictator today resigned seven of his eight cabinet positions held under the Italian Fascist government. He remained as Premier and Minister of the Interior.

The royal decree announcing the action also contained notice of the replacement of two other ministers, those of Public Instruction and National Economy. The undersecretary of the interior was also changed.

The move, comprising the most sweeping reorganization in Fascist governmental history, was entirely unexpected, even in official circles being a complete surprise.

Pastor Who'll Wed Florence and John

Secret Inquiry Probes Rioting

Court Holds Secret Session In Chambers To Quiz Witnesses.

CHARLETT, N. C., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Judge Thomas J. Shaw's inquiry into the disorders in three counties Monday night, attributed to an "anti-Communist" mob, in which three men were kidnapped and one severely beaten, was turned in to a secret investigation today behind closed doors, after announcement yesterday the inquiry would be held in open court.

The reason given for conducting the hearing into a secret investigation in Judge Shaw's private chambers was because some would be reluctant to appear if they had been publicly implicated in the rioting.

Cottonseed Supply Looks Plentiful Says Bureau

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—(AP)—The census bureau announced today that cotton seed crushed in the period from August 1 to 31 totaled 121,769 tons, as compared to 74,116 tons in the same period last year. Cottonseed on hand at mills August 31 was 150,109 tons as against 123,499 tons for corresponding period in 1928.

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Sept. 12.—(AP)—A Chinese official communique today stated that fighting was resumed this morning at Pogranichnaya between Chinese and Russian troops, after a two-day lull in the fighting.

The scene of the latest fighting is the eastern border terminus of the Chinese Eastern railway where much property has been destroyed by Russian air raiders.

Saenger Theatre Manager Facing J. P. Jury Trial

Charged With Operating Show On Sunday In Violation of Law.

JURY HARD TO FIND

None Accepted from First Panel After Being Quizzed.

Trial of Jack Eaves, Saenger theatre manager here, for violation of law by conducting a moving picture show on Sunday was started in Justice Bright's court at ten o'clock this morning, prosecuting attorney Steve Carrogan, assisted by deputy Pat Casey, appearing for the State and Messrs. Luke Monroe and Will Atkins for the defense.

That a jury will be difficult to obtain is admitted by both sides to the argument, most of the talesman admitting they had either formed or expressed an opinion or were prejudice either for or against Our prospective juror admitted he opposed Sunday picture shows but the sale of soft drinks, papers, shoe shines, gasoline etc., was all right.

The first twelve talesman summoned were speedily eliminated and the court recessed until one-thirty to give officers opportunity to summon additional veniremen to be passed on as jurors.

One difficulty encountered by attorneys in selecting a jury is the straw vote recently held by Hope Star as to whether the voters favored Sunday amusement and home rule for Arkansas cities or were against either or both. Nearly every citizen in the community eligible for jury duty voted in that contest and are being quizzed about it in jury-selection to try Eaves.

The complaint against Eaves was filed nearly a month ago but is just now coming to trial. Meanwhile, the show has been operated each Sunday. Result of Star's straw vote showed nearly two to one for the Sunday amusement.

To Renew British Soviet Relations

Steps Taken To Place Two Countries On Friendly Footing.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Great Britain today took new steps to resume commercial and diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia. The British government sent to the Norwegian government, for transmission to Russian officials, a note expressing the view that the time had come when it would be desirable to renew the conversation interrupted several months ago by the departure of the Soviet plenipotentiary.

Inability to agree at that time on matters regarded by both governments as important but which have since lost their significance was the cause of the last break.

Miss Case said today that she became incensed when a young man transferred his affections from her to Clara May Ellison, 18. She attacked the Ellison girl with a knife stabbing at her throat and narrowly missing severing the jugular vein. She is held on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

G. O. P. Committee Is Reorganized

The Republican party was set upon a program of "unflinching activity" as the Republican National Committee met for reorganization at Washington. The committee chairmanship was given for the first time to a Southerner—Claudius H. Huston of Tennessee—who is pictured above, right, with President Hoover, center, and Dr. Hubert Work, resigned chairman. Three women newly elected to the committee are shown below, left to right: Congresswoman Ruth Pratt of New York, Mrs. Margaret Tucker of Vermont and Mrs. Harry Thomas of Wisconsin.

'Irish Landlord' Role Appeals To Al

Alfred E. Smith is president of an organization which will erect the world's tallest building in New York. The Woolworth Building, 60 stories high, is the tallest at present. An artist's conception shows how the new building will rear above that peak.

By DONALD C. BOLLIES

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The man who came up from the tenements of America's metropolis to be governor of New York and knock at the door of the White House is to be a ruler again.

An "Irish landlord" is what Alfred E. Smith calls his new role as the virtual head of a city of 60,000 persons that now is in the making but a ruler nevertheless. It will be a unique community, a city within a city, housed in a veritable citadel of brick and steel from whose topmost peaks he may look down upon the city of his birth.

It will be a compact community whose height will exceed its girth, covering only two of the most costly acres of Manhattan but threatening the clouds with its 80 stories.

A $60,000,000 home of his new constituency is planned by the former governor as president of the Empire State Office Building corporation, which will erect the largest office building in the world. It will rise within 18 months upon the site of the world famous Waldorf-Astoria hotel on Fifth avenue.

From one who sought escape from the maelstrom of public life after a long and distinguished career, the democratic presidential candidate appears to have tackled the kind of a task in which he will find many problems with a familiar tinge.

As governor the welfare of his constituency was uppermost in his mind. As an "Irish landlord" the success of the gigantic business undertaking will depend much upon the same considerate attention to the welfare of his people. Water and electric power, finances and taxes are problems from which he finds no escape in his new role.

Announcement of his new business plans signified that the time for play was over. At 56 he has rolled up his sleeves and entered upon a phase of activity in the business world.

Since his unsuccessful bid for the presidency, Mr. Smith has been leading a quiet life with his family in a comfortable suite in the Biltmore in New York after brief sojourns in famous vacation spots in the south and east. He has devoted his time to rest and writing, working on his autobiography "Up to Now."

Gen. R. A. Sneed, national commander of the United Confederate veterans, is the oldest elected official ever to serve in Oklahoma. At 84 he is state treasurer.

Art Gillham Scores Real Hit At Talbot

Art Gillham, the whispering pianist, made his first appearance in Hope last night, introduced to Hope amusement lovers by Manager Chapman, of the Talbot theatre. And Gillham scored a hit!

Possessor of a pleasing stage personality, a voice low, vibrant and pleasing, Gillham sang his way into the emotions of the crowd which packed the show house, just human songs he sang—no jazz, nothing suggestive—just songs that took you into the moonlight out of doors where the air was pure and sweet.

Reminiscent of another day most of his selections were, but pleasing without—and any number of Hope people won't forget to "tune in" on any station where Gillham is slated to appear.

He left last midnight for his home in Memphis to wind up a few personal affairs before going back to New York for a stay to do recording and radio work.

These Macon, Ga., high school students drove 1850 miles on a long tour that eventually took them to Camp Perry, O., for—well, something to shoot at. They participated in the junior division of the national rifle matches. Above, left to right, are Elwood Barbro, Arthur Ferguson, Lem Clark, Bill Casson and Gus Clark, sitting in front of their "transportation" to Ohio and, incidentally, other points north and east.

Promoting Peace

GERMANY, the maker of war, has become Germany, the maker of peace.

Fifteen years ago, scientific minded Germans were toiling in their laboratories, devising machines of horror to spread destruction throughout the world.

Hated, and feared, they perfected a giant gun to shoot projectiles 75 miles into Paris. Their use of deadly gases appalled the world.

But today, the same scientific and technical skill is perfecting mechanical emissaries of peace to spread good will.

The mighty Graf Zeppelin is an outstanding example. Coming to the United States to start its round-the-world flight, it probably has done more to promote friendship than all Germany's statesmen put together. People don't fear things or persons they can see and understand. It's the hidden and unfamiliar things that arouse fear.

The German-built Bremen, fastest steamship afloat, is making a bid to regain the nation's passenger business on the seas, and it is also creating good will.

And another German giant—the 100-passenger Dornier seaplane—is planning a trans-Atlantic crossing and, perhaps, a regular trans-oceanic passenger line.

Swifter transportation always has been a silent ambassador of peace. It brought the east and west in the United States closer together. And it will break down international barriers, as well.

When man can walk and talk with his neighbors more often, and do business with them, he will hesitate much longer about going to war with them.

Women and Politics

WOMEN are becoming of ever-increasing importance in politics. They are now serving in all but 10 of the state legislatures, a recent survey disclosed, and eight of their sex occupy seats in Congress.

The old theory that politics is a game meant for men alone seems to have been blasted and women no longer remain at home and let the men steer the ship of government.

With their clubs, political organizations and unparalleled willingness to work for a cause, women have become of vast importance in every election, whether it is in a tiny hamlet or a presidential race. Women have become main arms in both the major parties.

Unhampered by political alliances, in most instances, the successful women candidates are able to come into office with open minds and a sincere desire to improve their government.

But it will be interesting to note what happens when these women have been in office a number of years—when they realize support of party organizations means favors in return.

Many men have entered politics with the highest ideals and defying the political powers. But in the end so many of them turn to the easy way of staying in political—trading favor for favor and voting like all good party men are expected to vote.

We hope—and yet we are afraid to predict it—that women will be a lot more stubborn when the political bosses crack their whips.

The Gun's Power

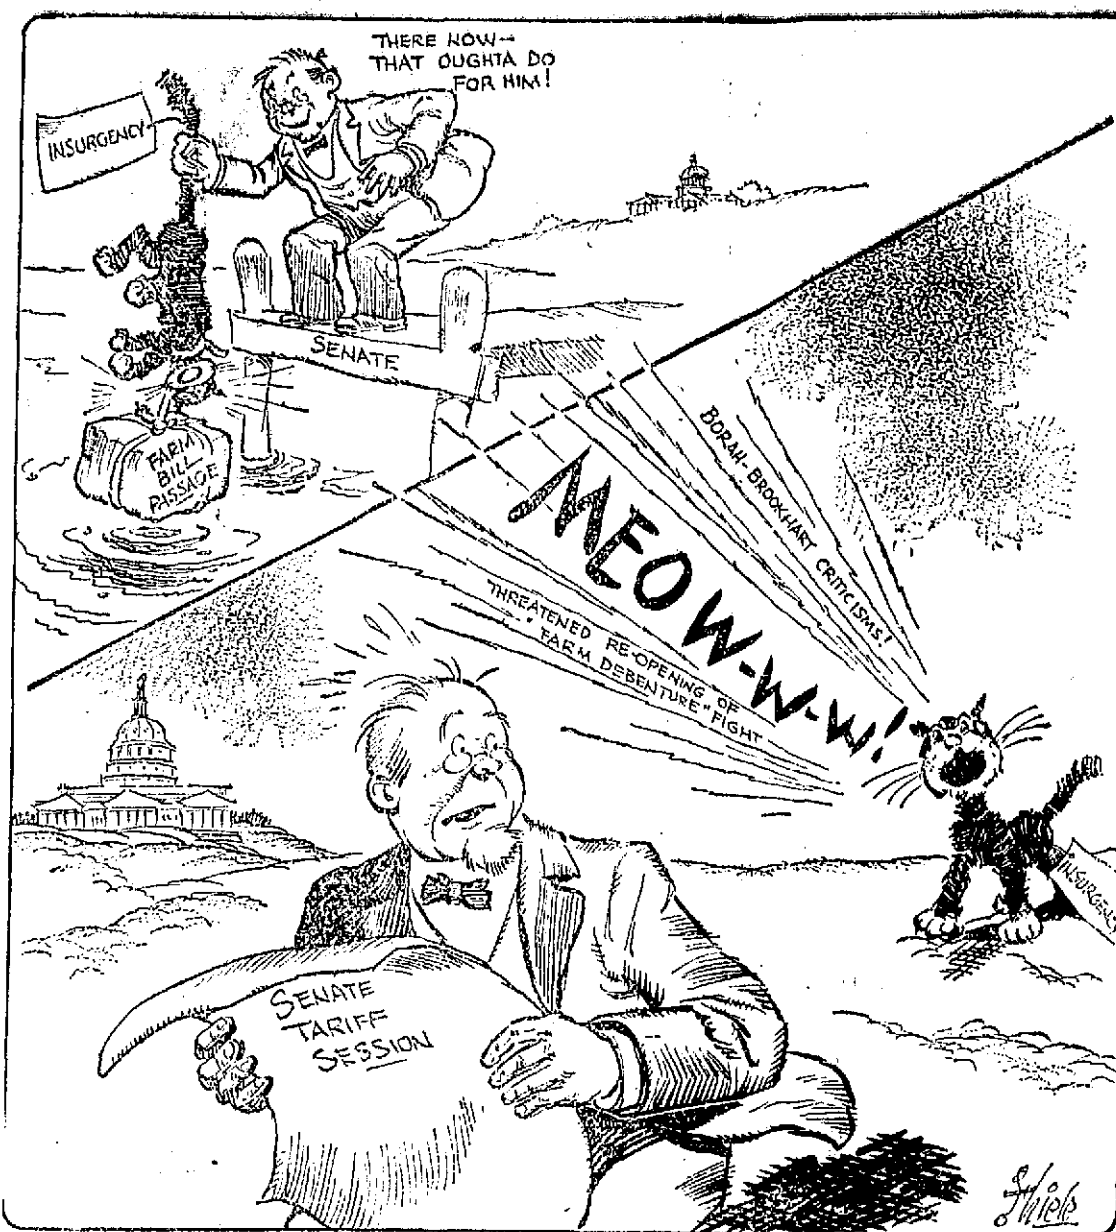

SOME historians have blamed the decline of feudalism largely on the invention and use of gunpowder. The Musketeer, they pointed out, made the man on foot the equal of the man on horse—so the mailed knight lost his preeminence.

This ability of high explosives to give men power they would naturally lack is somehow emphasized, to our mind, by the photographs of Willie Doody, the recently-captured "two-gun terror" of Chicago.

Doody had a long record, was down in the police books as "very dangerous," was accused of various holdups and murders, and all in all sounded like the very incarnation of the desperado. Yet in his pictures he looks weak, juvenile, almost effeminate; looking at a photograph you would say that here was a man no one need ever fear.

But the revolver added inches to Doody's stature. Given a gun, he was the equal of the browniest, huskiest policeman in the country. It is as true now as in the declining days of chivalry that gunpowder has made men equal.

What! Has the Old Cat Come Back?

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—In 20 or 25 years the privately-owned forests of the country will be exhausted and an era of adobe huts is likely to begin in some communities.

This gloomy prediction probably can be regarded as fact. It comes from Major George P. Ahern, one of the outstanding authorities on forestry, and is supported by Gifford Pinchot and other eminent foresters.

Depletion of the national wood supply has most of the alarming aspects of the draining of American oil resources and two of its main causes are the same—uncontrolled overproduction and waste. But while oil wells cannot be made to refill themselves forests can in time be regrown. And there is an immense amount of waste in forestry fires which threaten the future of the forest. The trouble is that little if anything is being done about forest replacement and the annual forest fire loss has rapidly increased.

Studies in Every State

With inexorable statistics and facts which do not appear to have been controverted by any other expert, Major Ahern has been engaged in a campaign to save forests. He presented his statement early this year in a pamphlet called "Deforested America," of which 10,000 copies were printed by the government and which has been praised by foresters everywhere as an accurate summary. He is now engaged on a series of individual surveys of a forest and lumber situation in each of the 48 states.

"Timber is being cut several times faster than it is being reproduced," Ahern says. "Reforestation and industrial forestry are negligible. One-eighth of our original virgin forest area now remains. Half of that is publicly owned. National Forest timber supplies but three per cent of our demands."

"Destructive logging practices and forest fires, making large additions annually to our devastated areas, and reducing second-growth possibilities far below minimum requirements, are principal hope for future wood supplies. Our most urgent need is to stop destructive logging practices and forest fires."

"In 1920 there were 28,000 forest fires which burned 3,500,000 acres of forested land. This destruction has risen until in 1928 there were 177,000 forest fires. Three years from 1923 to 1928 averaged 114,000 fires annually and 28,000,000 acres of burned forests. These figures could be very radically reduced if Congress would appropriate adequately for the fighting of forest fires."

"The depressing lumber industry is rapidly liquidating its remaining assets. Lumbermen insist that better logging methods, efficient fire control and reforestation are almost impossible because of the cost. The chief interest of the lumber industry is not in the forests, but in markets better manufacturing and such matters as elimination of manufacturing waste."

Government foresters agree with Ahern's views, but do not care to reiterate them publicly, perhaps through fear of reprisals from the lumber industry.

Prison Softens Rebellious Natures of "Thrill" Slayers

Five years ago Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, Chicago "thrill" slayers, entered Joliet penitentiary, where their rebellious natures have been tamed. Leopold (left) and Loeb as they appeared in court.

JOLIET, Ill., Sept. 12.—(AP)—The old clock in the warden's office has ticked away five years of the lifetime that Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb must pay for the "perfect crime" that was so imperfect.

In May, 1924, the wealthy collegiate youths, outstanding students and sons of well established Chicago families, killed 14-year old Bobby Franks, also of a wealthy family.

They naively dismissed the tragedy with the reason that they had sought a thrill. On September 12 Leopold and Loeb were "dressed in" at state prison here.

Loeb, now 25, is a messenger—an errand boy—in the yard of the old prison. Leopold, 24, whets the superior intelligence that was his undoing in the library of the new prison. Occasionally he checks the records of the shoe factory. The two youths never see each other.

Prison routine and monotony have blurred the alert, intelligent mind of the thrill slayers, and dulled the socially rebellious attitude that lured them to the "perfect crime."

At first Leopold was sneeringly skeptical of serving his sentence, and Loeb, rebellious and violent. Now they are reconciled; nameless numbers.

Relatives see them on visitors' day, a heavy screen separating them. Rumors of parole efforts come up and fade. Clarence Darrow, the attorney, who pleaded so brilliantly for their lives because of their youth and "mental illness," says the families never will make an effort to free them.

Loeb and Leopold still are avid scholars and read widely and continuously.

Two accidents marred the "perfect crime" and revealed the amazing slayers to a shocked city. A pedestrian found the body of Bobby Franks in a culvert in the lonely outskirts of Chicago. The slayers had failed to entirely conceal it. Leopold's spectacles were dropped at the culvert, and they were traced to him.

More than 60 airplanes clear the Cleveland airport daily, carrying an average of 60 passengers and 5,500 pounds of mail.

More than 1,300,000 persons visit the Chicago Art Institute yearly.

The Innocent Cheat

By Ruth Dewey Givens
AUTHOR OF "RICH GIRL-POOR GIRL," ETC.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
Helen Page feels unhappy when the girls at the boarding school tease her about giving up dancing and parties and being Miss Simplicity just to please her handsome guardian, Leonard Brent, with whom they accuse her of being in love. And her roommate calls her a fool after they see him at the Rita one day with another woman. Realizing her school-girl imitation for him, Brent exacts his promise to do anything he asks her to, and says he will tell her about her parentage after she graduates.

One day Brent spies a gold locket on a beggar who has fallen in an alley. He bends over to take the locket and hears mumbled words which cause him to try to save the old man. But he dies before Brent can verify any dates or facts except that his name is Charles Owens Nellin; that his wife is dead and that he has hidden his daughter from her wealthy grandfather, Cyril K. Cunningham, of Yonkers.

Posing at a newspaper man searching for story material, Brent learns much about the history and habits of the eccentric old millionaire from the corner store gossip who tells him that the daughter had eloped with Nellin and the father had disinherited her. He had heard that the mother was dead but did not know where the child Evangeline was.

Helen graduates and he tells her that he is now ready to disclose her parentage and early history.

Now Go On With the Story

CHAPTER IX
"You are," Brent said tensely, "an heiress, Helen."

"An heiress!" Helen was bewildered. If Brent had lost his money. . . Suddenly she laughed. He had money for her, of course. Her own money in some way. And he had lost much of his fortune. A wave of gladness swept over her, filled her eyes with a shining light.

Things hadn't changed for them after all. She would simply give her money to Leonard. She tried to tell him this, in words that came with a rush.

"You needn't have told me anything," she cried. "Everything could have been just as it was. About the money, I mean. Of course I want to know about my parents, but I've always hoped . . ."

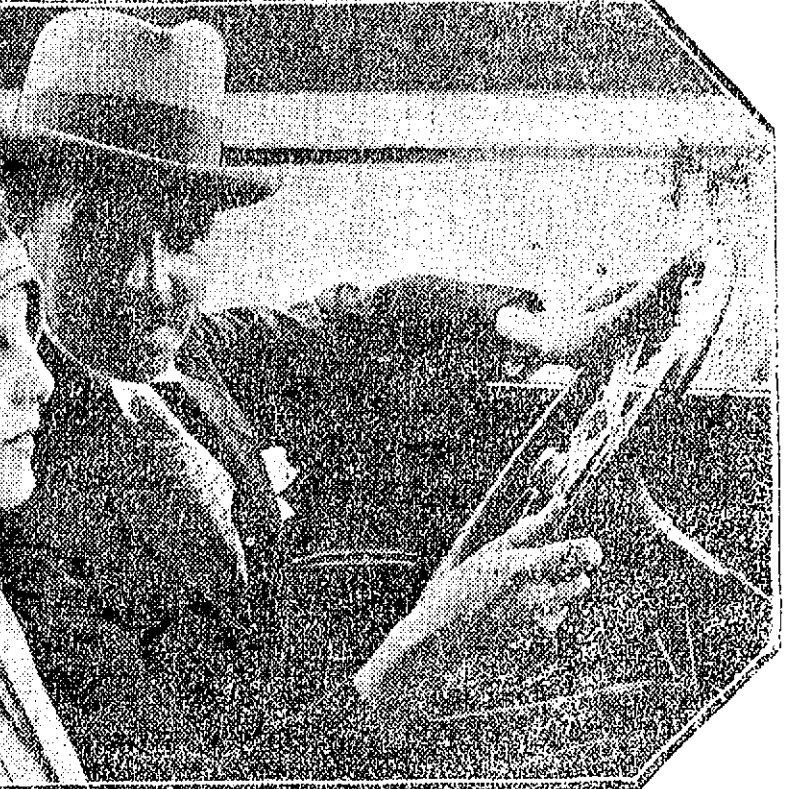

She stopped, the new experience of letting her thoughts run to words falling short of carrying her thought.

And, too, it had come to her suddenly that she might be revealing too much of her feeling for her guardian. He had not yet asked her for her love, she reminded herself.

Brent did not let a silence fall upon them. "I'm afraid you don't understand, Helen," he said, making an effort to be patient. "You will not be able to obtain your money unless I tell your story. Even then you may not get it. Personally I rather hope you won't money I'll inherit, my father's? My mother's?"

"For the same reason that he took your mother out of this country," Brent told her.
"Can you tell me that?" Helen said, half afraid that still some of the story would be withheld from her.
"I mean to tell you everything," Brent declared. "Just listen, dear. Remember one night several weeks ago when I came up to see you at school and we dined at the inn? You said then that you weren't even sure that your name was Helen Page." He paused to give weight to his next words. Helen remained silent.
"Well," he said slowly. "It isn't You aren't Helen Page. Only your middle name is Helen. Your father took the name of Page so that your grandfather—your mother's father—would find it more difficult to locate him and your mother."

"Why?" Helen cried.
"Because your grandfather is an old lawyer, my dear girl, and your father had incurred his wrath by marrying your mother. You see he wasn't a wealthy man, poor Charles; luck always went against him. And your mother was the only child of a very rich man."

"You aren't Helen Page. Only your middle name is Helen. Your father took the name of Page so that your grandfather would find it more difficult to locate him and your mother."

father that I would do it when you were grown."

"Tell me about my father, and my mother," Helen urged.

"I never knew your mother," Brent replied. "Your father, of course you know, was one of my closest friends. But I hadn't seen him for several years before your birth—not until I went down to Mexico at his dying request to take you under my care."

"And my mother?" Helen pressed. "Where was she?"

"She had died a year before," Brent said. "In Mexico?"

"Yes."

Helen was thoughtful for a moment, thinking of that year her father was alone.

"I wonder why he didn't bring me back to the United States," she exclaimed finally.

"How much nearer to me it brings my mother to know her name," she said to Brent.

He sighed. "You see," he said "I already . . . you will want to see her home, won't you?"

"Oh yes," Helen answered, swiftly in her understanding, "but that can't come between us in any way."

"We shall see," Brent said gloomily. "But I want you to remember that your grandfather was my friend's enemy—your father's enemy. I can't enjoy the thought of giving you over to him."

"You won't need to," Helen promised. "I don't want his money, Leonard. How could I want it when he was unkind to my mother?"

"Well," Brent hedged, "he had his side of the case, I suppose. You see, I'm not an impartial judge. To me Charles Nellin was a real man, a true friend and my sympathy was entirely with him."

"What did my grandfather do to him?"

"Nothing, in a way. He refused to give his permission to Nellin's marriage with his daughter. He's as proud as the old Nick, but that was natural because Charles was only a poor chap—a musician, in fact. But he got the idea in his head that Cunningham was trying to take his wife away from him."

"I can't say whether he was justified or not, but he probably was. At any rate he left the country and changed his name. It isn't so much what Cunningham did to him that matters. He had small opportunity to act against him. Charles kept out of his way. The marriage was an elopement. And afterward Charles never saw your grandfather again."

"And my mother? Did she go back?"

"Never. But Charles feared that she might, and it was this fear that drove him to Mexico. Your grandfather is guilty of having ruined his life. He made a vagabond of him. But your mother had more cause for bitterness. Her father refused her one and only appeal for aid—refused it cruelly. It was made for your sake, Helen, and it broke your mother's heart to know that you were to be left behind in poverty. The letter she received from her father hastened her death."

"Oh my poor mother," Helen moaned.

"That is why I have no kind feeling for Cyril Cunningham," Brent commented acidly.

"I hate him!" Helen exclaimed. "I never want to see him!"

Brent waited a moment for her agitation to pass. "I'm afraid we can't either of us make that possible," he said earnestly, "unless we are to break a promise to your father."

"But I never promised," Helen protested.

"I promised for you," Brent explained to her. "You see, dear, before your mother's death she begged Charles to take you back to America and appeal to her father once more to help you. I'm afraid she knew that poor Charles was scarcely the man to bring up a motherless girl and provide for her in a proper way. But Charles was too bitter to comply with her request. It preyed on his mind, however, and when he knew he was near death itself he sent for me

Have You A Scrub Bull?

A statement was made once by a prominent dairyman that where a scrub bull is found if the bushes are beat around that place a scrub man will be found also.

The scrub bull is one of the enemies of the dairy industry, according to county agent, Lynn Smith. One scrub bull may do more harm than many such cows, because the bull is recognized as half of the herd.

Hempstead county has too many scrub bulls. Before dairying will ever progress to any great degree exceedingly valuable, and many bulls which were good breeders have been sent to the butcher before their merit was known. The kind the scrub bull must be replaced with bulls of merit. Every bull which is recorded in the herd register books is not always a desirable animal. We may find registered scrubs, proven sires are excellent quality of production which their off spring show is the acid test of what an animal is. Following are some of the characteristics by which a desirable bull may be selected.

1. General appearance of the animal.

2. Pedigree — Showing production of ancestors.

3. Line of breeding.

If all the above qualities are satisfactory one stands a far better chance than in getting an animal about the breeding of which we know little or nothing.

The ultimate aim of getting better bulls, of course, is to get better ter cows, and better cows we must have if we expect to make money in the dairy business.

Hempstead county needs at least 25 good sires located in that many communities where everyone will use them. Shall we get these sires or shall we continue with the scrub?

Zeppelin's Magellans Hailed on Broadway

Broadway did itself proud again. Lavish with ticker-tape noisy with bands and sirens and shouting, New York's "main street" accorded the usual heroes' welcome to the commander, the crew and passengers of the globe-girdling Graf Zeppelin. The stirring scene is pictured above as the parade of honor, led by an automobile bearing Commander Hugo Eckener, moved up the crowded thoroughfare to the city hall for Father Knickerbocker's official greeting.

Cotton Ginning Report Is Queer

Webb Laseter, crop statistician for Hempstead county for the federal government, today makes the queerest report he has ever been called upon to write and sign. What it means he doesn't pretend to say, only giving figures exactly as they are.

Up to September 1, 1928, there had been 302 bales of cotton ginned in this county. For the corresponding period this year cotton gins have turned out 1661 bales or more than five to one over last year.

Mr. Laseter refused to express any opinion as to the present crop, contenting himself with remarking that it was his job to give actual figures and not do any guessing.
